

Call for papers

II International Seminar on Gender and Space and

III Latin-American Seminar on Geography, Gender and Sexualities

May 16-19, 2017

Metropolitan Autonomous University of Mexico, Campus Iztapalapa, Azcapotzalco, Cuajimalpa and Xochimilco
Mexico City

First communication

Organized by the Metropolitan Autonomous University of Mexico, Campus Iztapalapa, Azcapotzalco, Cuajimalpa and Xochimilco, in collaboration with University's Gender Studies Program, the Geography Institute, the Faculty of Philosophy and Literature and the University's City Studies Program of the National Autonomous University of Mexico, Ponta Grossa Estadual University, Rondonia Federal University, Federal of Santa María University and Federal of Rio Grande University of Brasil.

This second meeting is intended to promote discussion on the main theoretical and methodological problems regarding the study of the relationship between gender, sexuality and space. Both seminars aim to establish a permanent Seminar in which new ideas can be discussed, exchanged and produced in an interdisciplinary environment.

Specialists and scholars from the fields of social sciences and the humanities are cordially invited to submit unpublished papers and documentary materials on the subject.

II International Seminar on Gender and Space and III Latin-American Seminar on Geography, Gender and Sexualities members will subsequently be expected to meet periodically in Mexico City or elsewhere to report their own research progress and engage in theoretical and methodological discussions, as well as share their research experiences.

Of particular interest to the Seminar is the organization of a gender and space research network. Seminars Proceedings will be published in digital format on the Internet, and a printed volume will be prepared with the most noteworthy papers.

Fees

Before March 15, 2017	$ 100.00 USD
From March 1 to May 16, 2017	$ 125.00 USD

Undergraduate or graduate students inscribed at a University will pay 50% of the accorded fee.

Participation modalities

- Keynote lectures
- Discussion panels with individual presentations
- Visual document presentations (videos, photos, scale models, testimonials, performances).

Interested participants are requested to send an abstract of their proposed papers or visual document presentations to the following e-mail address:

<generoyespacio@gmail.com>

Abstracts must not exceed 400 words, be written in font Arial 12 points using single space, and feature a centered title in capitalized lower-case bold letters. Proposals must reach the Seminar organizers before December 31, 2016, and must include the following information:

- Full name
- Academic degree
- Field of specialization
- Institutional affiliation
- Country and city of residence
- E-mail
- A résumé, no longer than 300 words
- Topic of choice for participation (see below)

After reviewing each proposal, the Academic Committee will contact participants with the results of their application between February 1-3, 2017, and send those accepted the final Seminar program. In order to ensure their inclusion in the online proceedings publication, final texts in full must be received before March 1, 2017.

Topics for discussion

- Space and gender under scrutiny: epistemological and conceptual approaches
- The production of gendered space, power, social reproduction and conflicts: experiences, practices, textual and visual representations, imaginaries, discourses and institutions
- Domestic space and new forms of configuring and inhabiting the realm of domesticity
- Rural and urban spaces
- Feminist geographies

- Sexualities and space: hetero-normativity, sexual diversity, sexual dissidence, queer sexualities
- Spatial dimensions of violence and insecurity beyond police surveillance
- The production of bodies gentrified
- Representation of space in literature, film, performing and visual arts
- Gender, ethnic and race identities
- Space, gender and everyday life
- Gender, space and exclusion
- Gender, space and social movements
- Gender and places of memory
- Gender, space, emotions and affections
- Spatial dimensions of migratory processes
- Daily mobility and gender
- Virtual spaces and cyberspaces
- Urban night culture and gender
- Gender studies, the new economy and urban spaces

Important dates

December 31, 2016	February 1-3, 2017	March 1, 2017	March 15, 2017
Deadline for reception of abstracts and presentation proposals	Notice of acceptance/rejection of abstracts and proposals	Deadline for reception of full versions of the papers	Publication of final program

Further information will follow in a forthcoming communication.